Modern Myths - Orbiter and the Apple Tree

NEWTON'S BRAIN TEASER

The Story Goes: One day in the late 1600s, an imaginary meeting took place between Sir Isaac Newton, the Father of Modern Science, and Galileo Galilei, the Father of Modern Astronomy. They were resting under an apple tree in a contemplative state when an apple fell and an idea popped into their heads. As both were creative inventors, they envisioned an orbiting ring toss device that would help explain the theories of gravity and the orbits of planets (Copernican heliocentrism).

They called the game Orbiter, and the object was to set a ring in motion from one taller, uniquely angled post to ring a second, shorter, and conversely angled post. Players would be challenged to learn six Orbiter swings, each one different, with increasingly challenging swing paths.

They laughed as they created the six orbiting swings to correspond to six planets in orbit around the sun. But before they could share their device, their defense of Copernican heliocentrism became controversial, and so their game was hidden and lost until it recently mysteriously reappeared, swinging in the public spaces of Boston's Faneuil Hall and Cape Cod.

CopplestoneGames.com makes the modern version of the Orbiter ring toss game today.

Where Do Ideas Come From?

How does a turtle instinctively know it must race to the sea right after hatching?
Is there such a thing as the Universal Mind?

The story goes that one night, David Copplestone, the modern-day inventor of the Orbiter Ring-Toss game, found himself in a mysterious state of consciousness between being awake and asleep when he received a conceptual thought—a vision, a design, a solution for his ring-toss project. It was the Aha moment when he thought of Posts. Instead of a ring and a hook, use posts and swing a ring from one taller, angled post up onto another shorter, conversely angled post. He later wondered if this vision had been sent to him by Sir Isaac Newton through the channeling of what he was beginning to understand as the concept of Max Planck's Universal Mind. He questioned whether the Orbiter Ring Toss game might have been revealed to him by Sir Isaac Newton, the Father of Modern Science, who conceived of it; Galileo Galilei, the Father of Modern Science, who developed the swings inspired by the planets orbiting the sun; and Leonardo da Vinci, the artist and engineer, who joyfully designed the prototype. However, the idea had come to him; David realized that now that he had it, it was up to him to build it and share it.

Orbiter's Intelligent Design

Seeking Ballance Finding Peace

Sending Orbiter's ring flying through space has people enjoying a positive experience seeking balance and finding peace – if we learn to use our memory and imagination as tools ringers will come. The Orbiter is itself a tool to explore and understand memory, imagination, momentum, as well as our bodies, thoughts, and emotions. The Orbiter was created not just to score more points and make more ringers than someone else. The Orbiter was created to be a tool for learning and exploration. It was created with the idea that humans want to know. They want to know because on an unconscious level they understand that when they know how to be, they will know what to do.

In a similar way, I heard Mystic/Sadhguru say we can all be pleasant people enjoying a profound experience – if we learn to use these tools we have - our bodies, thoughts, and emotions.

He went on to explain;
If I ask you, do you want your Body to be pleasant or unpleasant, what would you say?
Pleasant.
If I ask you, do you want your Mind to be pleasant or unpleasant, what would you say?
Pleasant.
If I ask you, do you want your Emotions to be pleasant or unpleasant, what would you say?
Pleasant.
If I ask you, do you want your Life itself to be pleasant or unpleasant, what would you say?
Pleasant.
If I ask you, do you want your Surroundings to be pleasant or unpleasant, what would you say?
Pleasant.
So, if we have a pleasant body, we call it health. If it is very pleasant, we call it pleasure.
If we have a pleasant mind, we call it peace. If it is very pleasant, we call it joy.
If we have pleasant emotions, we call it love. If it is very pleasant, we call it compassion.
If we have a pleasant life, we call it bliss. If it is very pleasant, we call it ecstasy.
If we have pleasant surroundings, we call it success.
All will choose the pleasantness of body, mind, emotions, life, and world.
To make your surroundings pleasant you must have the competence and cooperation of many around you, otherwise, it may become unpleasant.
But to bring pleasantness of body, mind, emotions, and life, is 100% your business. Nobody else is involved.
If you want pleasantness of body, mind, emotions, and energy, you can do this 100%.
If you want to control your surroundings, you cannot do this 100%. It is always a little bit her way, a little bit his way, and a little bit your way.
You have a body, thoughts, and emotions. To make these tools function you have energy. These are the only four realities that are in your experience the rest is in your imagination including the world.
What you see is only in your mind. You only see and experience yourself. So Inner Engineering is to fix yourself so you see things as they are. So, beautiful, or ugly things do not change who you are.

In this mind, there is only addition and multiplication. So, if you do not want to think about something, all you will think about is that. So, stop pursuing things like happiness, be a pleasant person having a pleasant experience, and then you will not be prone to compulsive behaviors and thoughts. Sadhguru

1. When I heard the word Imponderables, I knew then the word to describe the questions that I had been seeking the answers to since I was a child.
2. When I watched Sadhgurru's videos, I knew I was hearing answers to those questions;

Who are we? Where do we come from? What are we doing here? Where are we going?
We have evolved to be the most intelligent life on earth. We are tiny pieces of life in the Cosmos We are pleasant people seeking a profound experience. We are in the process of returning to be a tiny bit of what is the Cosmos.

When you know how to be you will know what to do. Please Share this.

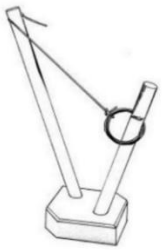
Orbiter - Cosmic Connection



Orbiter

Accepting the idea that the purpose of life is to experience it, the orbiter was invented, developed, and used, as a motivation for its inventor to explore and become more knowledgeable of the potential to experience life profoundly.
Through this two-step breathing exercise, the Orbiter can be used as a symbol and a device to remind all players of their potential to experience a more profound life. Breathing is fundamental.

Orbiter Breathing Exercise

1. Inhale as you set up for Orbiter swings 1-3.
2. Exhale as you make the swings 1-3.
3. Inhale and exhale as you set up for swings 4-6.
4. Inhale and exhale as you make the swings 4-6.

Yoga

Meditation

Orbiter aspires to be a symbol of Peace Higher Consciousness.

Part of the Orbiter experience is to explore the idea that you will be a more pleasant person once you, recognize, respect, and appreciate, every life as a piece of life and every inanimate object as a piece of creation. You may then be able to separate from your mind and body and see yourself as a piece of creation blessed with the awesome potential to experience life profoundly. We are all orbiters riding on planet earth in orbit around the sun. Using your memory and imagination you can realize your potential to make any Orbiter swing if you wish and to enjoy a bliss-filled life. Look inward.

Orbiter's Cosmic Connection

We posit that a connection is made between the force that holds the Orbiter ring in orbit around the post with the force that holds the moon in orbit around the earth and the earth and the other planets in orbit around the sun. This connection invites us to see the Orbiter as a symbol, to explore, experience, ponder, and meditate on, the fundamental questions of universal intelligence.

Orbiter Lesson #1: Whether you ring it or not, is a little bit memory, a little bit imagination, and a little bit motor skill. Whether you react with calmness and peacefulness is 100% up to you.
There is always room for improvement in all these aspects of the game.

Let's Raise Human Consciousness to a Level Where All Leaders Will Take Part

It is critically important that leaders in business and government seek clarity and consciousness in order to have a joyful stable base to work from. There is nothing so dangerous as the combination of ignorance and confidence in a leader. It is said that the intellect divides, and intelligence unifies and that when you know how to be, what to do comes naturally.

It would be my joy if my idea for the Orbiter as a sculpture were to be recognized by some as a physical symbol of peace in this mission to raise human consciousness. Please commit with me to helping Sadhguru reach every person with his yogic teachings. Let's make it happen.

Yogic teaching shows that much of the population and too many of the population's leaders misuse their great human gifts of memory and imagination and live in a condition of suffering rather than joyfulness. Human beings are loving creatures by nature. Sadhguru wishes to share the yogic tools that will help us follow our nature to be pleasant people enjoying a profound experience.

Let us commit to raising our own consciousness starting today. When we do this, the world's leaders cannot help but follow our lead and as a result of their higher consciousness stop using bombs, and bullets to settle their disputes.

Let's send a symphony of the sound OAM around the world as a unified signal of our awareness.

Our strong commitment will convince leaders to seek light, not darkness, truth, not deceit. We wish that together our commitment to learning what Sadhguru teaches will silence the terrifying noise of war.

This Is Our Moment

This is our moment, and it will be forever frozen in time. We are meant to make the most of our time here. Life is a miraculous experience unlike any other. When our conscious time here ends, it will be wonderful to have experienced it, to have fulfilled our purpose, and to know that our moment of conscious living will exist in its own way along with all who came before and all who will come after, forever and ever in the timeline of eternity.

The idea of the Orbiter has guided me on my journey to realize that life is a blessing, and our purpose here is to experience it. To pursue goodness, understand truth, enjoy beauty, and by doing so, contribute to the good, the true, and the beauty of eternity. The Orbiter is a good idea, based on the laws of motion, which describe the beautiful motion of objects through space. Some see the Orbiter as a symbol of the path toward goodness, truth, and beauty, and that its two posts design recalls the peace sign of the sixties. “Every time an Orbiter swings, a wish for peace takes wing—a wish for a world with less suffering, less injustice, and more truth.” The Way is to know that the nature and character of creation is merciful and gracious, always moving toward the good, and to emulate that in all we do.

Orbiter Brainteaser – Use your imagination. Swing the ball or ring from one uniquely angled post onto the shorter, oppositely angled post. Every time you change your position relative to the Orbiter base, you must use your imagination to create a new swing to accomplish the game's task of sinking the ball into the cup or ringing the post.

A wish for a better world, one with less suffering, less injustice, and more truth.

Divine Consciousness – Love and Unity

Orbiter reminds us that, as part of Divine consciousness, in the battle between love and fear, unity and separation, we choose love and unity.

Take a swing. Make the connection.

Many of the greatest philosophers, scientists, and spiritual teachers throughout history have advised that if you are seeking answers to the most important mysteries, look inward, not outward. For this thought experiment, we want to connect the mysteries of the infinite with the study of the Orbiter's swings, using the Orbiter as a symbol to remind players to look inward and avoid distraction by confusing thoughts.

The Orbiter's creator became familiar with these wise teachings as part of a search for truth, and in part because he was seeking the origin of the conceptual thought behind his Orbiter Ball & Ring Toss game. Where did the idea come from? What was it for? Was it an answer to a questioning mind, a connection with universal consciousness? Was it meant to entertain, or to inspire a search for understanding and truth?
