Tournament

Use Your Imagination

Every time you change your position relative to the base or wrap the cord around the post, you must use your imagination to form a new swing.

(Legal Swing - Ball must travel at least five feet.)

(Swing Option – Use the original six Orbiter swing positions.)

Most-In-a-Row

The Orbiting, Post-to-Post, Ball-Toss Game

There are ten swings per player per inning.

Players decide whether the game is comprised of one inning, three innings, or nine innings. They also decide who goes first and where they will stand in relation to the OrbiterBall base to make their swings. In any subsequent innings, the players play in order from highest to lowest.

Players score additional points for having the most points in a row. (Score one point for each bucket or knock-off in a row – a minimum of three in a row is required to qualify for these bonus points.)

Players take turns and keep their scores.

The player with the most buckets, knock-offs, and points in a row, wins the game. If a game ends with tie scores, those players play again until a clear winner is determined.
